Addy, Its time I let it out... I get angry Addy when I think about what you could have been, should have been, the pain that all of us are left with. I know you didnt mean it, I know that you would change it if you could, but I think about all of the pain that your family feels and I just wanna grab you and shake the shit out of you and say "Are you happy""Was it worth it". Then I think about all of the smiles and the laughter and I know that it wasnt a punishment to us, yet your ignorant innocence thats all. I love you little cousin and I miss you so much. I think about when you were a baby with those big blue eyes and white hair and a smile comes across my face. You were odacious addy so much so that our hearts will never forget the way you lit up a room. I remember that day addy I got off the phone and colapsed to the floor blubbering like a fool. I scared the hell out my little girl she had no idea what was going on (lucky her). I think I must have held my breath for what seemed like forever and then I thought how do I comfort them, my family, the ones dying inside even more than myself. I dont think I truly believed it until I pulled up to the house. I dont know if their loss can be measured by words, tears or condolences. I hurt most for your parents with whom I love and who dont deserve to know what this pain feels like. I miss ya and I love you and God bless you Addy Love your cousin ShannonP.S. Julz you amaze me and I love you for your strength. I know everyday is a struggle without you having to say the words, I know I cant take away the pain but thats the beauty of life right, if I took away your pain I would be taking away a part of him. I love you and I will always be here for you.##imported-begin##Your cuz, Shannon##imported-end##

I have seen and still see the pain and stife that everyone has gone through since Adam passed. There is nothing anyone can say or do to make the pain better. I do know that talking about Adam will ease a little, I see that in my best friend Kasee (shannon) Adams cousin, I see that if we just sit and talk about Adam she feels better, I just wish that could have been the case for everyone else, especially clint. we have all seen the results of bottling your feelings inside and not telling anyone so I hope for you Ashawn being you were the one that found him, I hope that through your life you will continue to talk about Adam it will only help you to be stonger and become a better person as apposed to NOT talking about him and same goes for you Ali. And Julie I truely hope that someday soon you will find your self and sense of belonging again but in the mean time there are many of us here for you whether you want to believe it or not. I want to post this poem I wrote in 2000, it has recently became a tradition in passings of dear friends and family's and I hope that these words help you ALL to continue to cope with adams death, then, now, and in the future. Take care and you all know I love you very much not only as a family friend but just as a friend who will listen. My Spirit Is Free I am still here, Please don't mourn for me, I am still here, Though you cannot see. I am right by your side, Each night and day, And within your heart, I long to stay. My body is gone, Yet I am always near, I am everything you feel, See and hear. My spirit is free, Yet I will never depart, Just as long as you keep me, Alive in your heart. I will never wander, Out of your sight, I am the brightest star, That shines in the night. I will never be, Beyond your reach, I am the warm moist sand, When you are out on the beach. I am the colorful leaves, When fall comes around, And the pure white snow, That blankets the ground. I am the beautiful flower, Of which you are so fond, And the clear waters, That be stills in a pond. I am the first bright blossom, You will see in the spring, The first elegant rainbow, That April will bring. I am the first ray of light, When the sun starts to shine, And you will see, That every face on the moon is mine. When you start to think, That there is no one to love, You can talk to me, Through the Lord above. I will whisper my answers, Through the limbs of the trees, And you will always feel my presence, In the soft summer breeze. I am the warm salty tears, That flow when you weep, And the beautiful dreams, That come when you sleep. I am the smile you see, On each and every face, I am the beauty of a song, That is sung in praise. I am just beneath, Every voice you may hear, That will give you advice, And lift you with cheer. I am the wind, That will blow through your hair, So just look for me, Because I am everywhere. By: Jody L. Moody © copyright Dec. 28, 2000 ##imported-begin## Jody ##imported-end##

Addy, It has been a whole year now, but still fresh in the minds of all who love you, the loss that we feel. I found that with this last year and thoughts of you, that I must try to remember that I will grieve within my lifetime for the times we will not share, but rejoice in that promise of the future, for God has promised us eternity and that brings me peace of mind knowing that you will tickle me again one day. I will never forget your laughter, smile and your wonderful dance. I miss you addy and will think of you often. Your cuz, ShannonJulz, Your my bestest friend and my favorite cousin, I hope that with the love of your family, friends and the beautiful memories you have that things will get easier with time. It has been great to see you smile and heartbreaking to watch you cry, but I know that you are sooo strong and I know that adam is proud of you! I miss your tender smile and the way you tickled me because you knew that was my weakness. I tell the girls, that position is not up for grabs it is now retired. I can tell you the one thing that I will not ever have to miss and that is the look of pride in your parents eyes, because that is stronger than ever and will never be replaced. I also know that no matter how caught up in my own life that I may become, you will never become just my cousin that I babysat. You will always stay a fresh and crisp reminder of what love and life is about, through your parents and your sisters love for the life that you shared with each of them. When I recieved the call from you telling me of Adams death, I thought you were playing around with me for just a second. I was waiting for you to say, "not really". If you can recall when you called me on that day of his passing, I asked you to repeat what you had said once again. I could not believe it. I am so sorry for the lose that you have had in your family. I just can't imagine losing one of my children. I just can't even imagine the pain that must be felt in the heart. When I told Michael and Maria of Adams passing, Michael went outside and spend a few moments by himself. Maria also took it quite hard and immediatly thought of Ali and Ashawn. She was sad for the passing of Adam. When I think of Adam, I remember a young man who was very mature and responsible for his age. I remember his humor and remember that smile of his. I will always remember when he danced for us in your livingroom to the "Lollipop" song. I have good memories of him. Clint, Julie and Family, This year coming will be tough. Stay close and talk together of Adam. Share the good memories of him. The first of things without him will be hard at first. First Thanksgiving, Christmas, Birthdays, Easter etc... Mourn for as long as you need to. Everyone has their own time of healing. Cry when you need to and Laugh also. I will not forget Adam. I am sending a Hug to each of you with this note, and I hope that you can feel the warmth of it. I consider all of you one of my closest of friends. Take care and stay close to each other.
