Hi my name is Rebecca, you dont know me but I wanted to offer my sincere condolence for the loss of your loved one. It's so hard losing those we love, I have experienced that myself so I know how it feels. What has helped me get through times like these is comforting scriptures found in the bible. I wanted to share a couple with you. The first one is found at John 5:28 and the first part of verse 29. It states "Do not marvel at this because the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come on out."So we have the hope that we will be reunited with our loves ones, that will be such a joyful time.The other scripture is at Revelation 21:4 which says, "and he will wipe out every tear from their eyes and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore, the former things have passed away." Isn't that a beautiful scripture?One day soon we will not have to worry about dying or losing we love to death. This is a promise from our creator. I love this scripture and have read it more than I can count. It's been my experience that only time can help ease some of the pain, I hope that is the case with you. I hope you are surrounded by friends and family, that can be of great help. Again I am so sorry for you loss.With
