“ How do I say goodbye to a dear friend of over 50 years? Piper always knew just what needed to be said at times like this, and it is thoughts like that which cause me to miss her even more. She never complained even when her burdens were several and instead chose to focus on the needs of those around her. God just did not make enough of her, and so she did the work of an army all by herself. Selfless to fault. She had a heart so big it exceeded the capacity her little body. She was the little engine that could. I will never get over missing her.

“ I was with Piper at Annie for years, and always admired her. One time she brought in a form to the teacher(maybe 2nd grade) from her parents. The teacher asked, “Who scribbled on this?!”. Piper answered that it was her dad’s signature. We all laughed!

“ I'm so sorry to hear of Piper's passing. She was such a kind, generous person. I remember the pool parties she would have for Mallory's classmates before school started. The kids loved seeing each other after the long summer. May our Lord and Savior keep you wrapped in his comfort at this time.
